AN ASYLUM PATIENT

Commits Suicide By Turning Stream of Scalding Water Into Her Mouth.

Hopkinsville, Ky., May 16 .-Mrs. Belle Coleman, a patient from Bowling Green, who was received at the Western Asylum about ten days ago, committed suicide in a most peculiar manner. Great care was taken to remove from her room everything with which she could injure herself. She was allowed to go to the bathroom, and seized the opportunity to destroy her life, Finding she could not drown herself, she turned the hot water faucet and held her mouth under the scalding

Just before she was brought to the asylum she attempted suicide the American peace overtures, based by shooting and had not fully re- on restricted autonomy, coupled with covered from the wound on her breast. She was a widow forty years old and leaves one child, a daughter.

ADMIRAL DEWBY HOME FUND.

ddress to the People of the Nation al Committee of the Dewey

Washington, May 17 .- The national committee of the Dewey Home fund, consisting of Frank A. Vanderlip, assistant secretary of the treasury; Brig.-Gen. Corbin, Perry S. Heath, first assistant postmaster general, and El. THE ATTENDANCE LARGER THAN USUAL lis H. Roberts, treasure of the United States, have issued the following address to the people of the United

Dewey Home Fund.

National Dewey Committee, Washington, May 16, 1899.—The American people are anxious to do honor to Admiral Dewey. Their zeal has taken the form of invitations to banquets in many different cities, of celebrations, parades and displays. Obviously, it will be impossible for him to attend all the banquets, and it may be invidious to select one or a few for the houor of his presence.

The common sense of our countrymen, does not find suitable expression for its admiration and esteem for our great naval hero, in methods effervescent and transient.

admiration and esteem for our great navasient.

A grateful nation can not do better than provide liberally for admiral Dewey's comfort in a home fitted to his tastes weithy in some measure of his cervices and indicative in a small degree of the gratitude, which is not of a day, but of all time. A popular subscription will afford a testimonial, in which patriotism is il have a monument.

The career of Admiral Dewey is a part of our national history, a gloriuos chapter in the magnificent record of the recent was with Spain. Not in our own country alone, but in all the world, his name is emblazoned with those that shall not die. His services all know in part—the future will add to appreciation of his greatness, to the solidity and brilliancy of his fame.

On his return from the scene of his victories and his statesmanship, the official duties of Admiral Dewey will be performed in Washington. He should have a home there. The national capital can not fall to have attractions for him in the present and the future. For a winter residence, during his life, he can hardly find a more desirable place. It is for a home for Admiral Dewey in Washington that subscriptions are invited.

Suggestions to this general effect have been put forth in several quarters. Assurances have been conveyed to the undersigned that the general enthusiasm can be directed into a single current through the agency as a national committee. Each of us, busy with manifold occupations, accepts as a duty, not to be set aside, the task of organizing the popular munificence for this purpose, and of administering the patriotic trust for a Dewey Home fund.

Bubscriptions may be sent at once to the treasurer of this fund at the treasury devent ministering the patriotic trust for a Dewey Home fund.

Subscriptions may be sent at once to the reasurer of this fund at the treasury department, Washington, D. C. Temporary secipts will be promptly roturned, and as soon as it can be prepared a duplicate of the same date and number bearing a fine portrait of Admiral Dewey will be forwarded to every subscriber.

Immediate response will enable the national committee to convey to Admiral Dewey, as he lands, practical evidence that the American people have provided for him a home at the nation's capital.

The committee invites the newspapers of the country and the governors of all states to co-operate in this movement, [Signed] FRANK A. VANDERLIP, Chairman.

The Goebel Program.

Walter Forrester, as adept in names and phrases as a dictionary, now refers to Goebel as the "sallow-faced Pennsylvania Dutchman," and says with truth that "Gobel is playing a desperate game to defeat the will of 80 per cent of the Democrats of Kentucky through his machine." He figures out the rest of the program as follows: The scheme is to send Stone delegations composed of Goebel men from Western Kentucky. Through the first three districts. Goebel has all the Court House cliques for him, and they will win unless the farmers come into the primary and as-

He is popular with people of all political faiths and by his career as a man and a jurist will command the support of many outside the Republican party and the united and enthusiastic support of Republicans. The colored voters are for him as one man. His record is such that all Republicans can and will give him their enthusiastic support at the polls. kins county, has previously an nounced his candidacy, and it is vident from the friendly expressions concerning it in widely separated sections of the State that e will also have a large and enthusiastic following. Hardly a doubt exists that State Auditor Sam H. Stone will still further swell the list of candidates by authorizing the use of his name in connection with the gubernatorial nomination, and if he does so it will be conceded that three of the strongest men in the Republican party in this State will have entered the contest for leadership

To the Commercial all this appears to be a matter for general Republican congratulation. The fact that three strong and ambitious Republicans desire to make the canvass for governor of Kentucky this year, and that others may yet announce their candidacies for the same honor, is one of the convincing indications of Republican success at the polls. Charity of Speech

Charity of speech is as divine a thing as charity of action. To judge no one harshly, to misconceive no man's mo tive, to believe things are as they seem to be until they are proved otherwise to temper judgment with mercy-sure ly this is quite as good as to build up churches, establish asylums and found unkind deeds. Many a heart has been wounded beyond cure, many a reputation has been stabbed to death by a few little words. There is a charity which consists in withholding words, in keeping back harsh judgments, in abstaindemn. Such charity hears the tale of slander, but does not repeat it; listens silence, but forbears comment, ther locks the unpleasant secret up in the very depths of the heart. Silence can still rumor. It is speech that keeps a story alive and lends it vigor.—Humane Journal.

[Copyright, 1899, by D. M. Stearns.] 15. "And Simon Peter followed Jesus." In Math. xxvi, 58, it is said that Peter followed Him afar off, and when any, follow Him that way instead of following fully we may expect to see some work of satan in such a one. The dogs do not need to run after the sheep which keep close by the shepherd. It is only the wanderers which need to be barked in. Matthew also says that Peter went in and sat with the servants. He put himself in bad company.

He is in great danger. 16. "Peter stood at the door without. John went out and spoke unto her that kept the door and had Peter come in a little nearer. Before this and immediately after His arrest all the disciples forsook Him and fled, even as Jesus had said, own and shall leave me alone" (John xvi. 32). But Peter and John must have soon returned. Peter in his great weakness and John in his great love seemed in many ways the nearest to Christ of all the

17. "Art not thou also one of this man's disciples? He saith, I am not." Thus spake the damsel that kept the door, and thus Peter replied. Peter, who had said: "Although all shall be offended, yet will not I. If I should die with Thee, I will I think the dollar dinner given in memory of Jefferson was appropriate, because very few people know the facts in the when he said, "Day unto day uttereth thus Peter replied. Peter, who had said: "Although all shall be offended, yet will not I. If I should die with Thee, I will not deny Thee in any wise" (Mark xiv, 29, 31). How little we know our own hearts or realize how weak we are and what we might do if left to ourselves. 18. "Peter stood with them and warmed himself." He stood with the servants and officers who had made a fire of coals to warm themselves, for it was cold. The expression "it was cold" seems to —you will better understand. To our Lord it was from the earthly side so dark and lonely, but His comfort was His Father's presence and approval.

19. "The high priest then asked Jesus

"Jesus answered him, I spake open ly to the world; I ever taught in the synagogue and in the temple, whither the Jews always resort; and in secret have I said nothing." Even the people had said: "Lo, He speaketh boldly, and they say nothing unto Him. Do the rulers know indeed that this is the very Christ?" (John question determines our life current .vii, 26.) Even a great criminal is by the law and the officers of the law one dare touch him. Against our Lord nothing was proved yet; He was not even

"Now Annas had sent Him bound unto Caiaphas, the high priest." John does not dwell longer upon His ill treatment before Caiaphas, the false witnesses, the blindfolding and spitting and buffet-ing. Perhaps, like the agony in Geth-semane, it was more than he could write about. Matthew, Mark and Luke saw it not; they only heard it from others; but John saw it all, it was very real to him, he could not forget it, and to write it would be to live it all over again. He could not stand it; it was not required of fail to notice what Jesus said to the high priest about His second coming, for it will surely come to pass (Math. xxvi, 64; Mark xiv, 62; Luke xxii, 69).

Lasiness of Mind.

There is a laziness of the mind as well as of the body. People loaf mentally as well as physically. One is to be despised quite as much as the other. The man or boy who sits about on street corners and in stores telling idle tales is no more a social nuisance than is he who dawdles over his studies or dreams away the hours wool gathering which who dawdles over his studies or dreams away the hours wool gathering which should be employed in planning and thinking about the serious problems of life. The mind should be held quite as rigidly to discipline as the body, for an aimless, wandering, unappliable mind will destroy one's usefulness quite as much as a slothful, flabby, unskilled body.—Churchman.

No Reason.

Because you are not of the most implous class of transgressors is no sufficient reason to despise others nor to boast before God how good you are, so that your prayer does not need to ask
